The major requires nine courses taken both within the department and through the cross-listed courses in other departments. Students enter the department major through one of the three core courses: WOST 108, or 120, or 222. Three other courses must be from within the department itself, including at least one seminar. For the entire major, students must take two units at the 300 level (not counting 350s, 360s, or 370s.) Not more than two units can be 100 level. Four of the nine courses must form a concentration, i.e. have a focus or central theme in common. Majors must select a Capstone Experience from these options: WOST 312: Feminist Inquiry, or 314: Global Feminism, or WOST 313: Fieldwork in Women's Studies, or WOST 360/370: Senior Thesis.
